How it Works

UltraMito Allergy is formulated to protect the cell from free radical damage and reduce cellular inflammation. This formula provides a free radical management system to support a normal immune system and assists in combating environmental pollutants. Our cells are constantly exposed to attack by free radicals in the environment and from a hyperactive immune system. Free radicals are molecules that contain an extra electron. These unpaired electrons are like buzz saws, capable of damaging delicate cellular machinery by oxidation. Fortunately, animal cells have built-in mechanisms for quenching these free radicals. Over time through the natural aging process or through constant environmental stress this ability wanes, and we produce less and less of the free radical defense molecules. As defenses wane, cellular systems are increasingly challenged and ultimately overtaxed by accumulating free radical damage. UltraMito Allergy prevents oxidative damage that leads toward cellular damage. In addition, the phytonutrients delivered via the XDS™ delivery system fight out-of-control inflammation where it begins—within the cells, thus radically reducing the effects of allergies without artificially masking the symptoms. Over time, with continued use of UltraMito Allergy, hypersensitivity is reduced, and the body's immune response is regulated.

The results of giving your pet UltraMito Allergy are dramatic: your pet's skin and coat health is restored, and the scratching and biting cease, food allergies fade. Runny eyes become a thing of the past, and constant licking stops. All of these results come from treating allergies at their cause, not ineffectively attempting to manage different symptoms. All of these results are delivered to your pet with UltraMito Allergy.
